

Special One-Time Opportunity: Multi-Disciplinary Arts and the Pittsburgh New Music Ensemble

Are You:

- Interested in using different art forms in your classroom?
- Interested in ways to connect new music to what you do in the classroom?
- Interested in the process of creating multi-disciplinary experiences?

Join the Arts Education Collaborative and Pittsburgh New Music Ensemble for a special one-time opportunity designed to stimulate an interest in and awareness of new music. The goal of this session is to provide an opportunity to reach deeper into the content and meaning of work presented by Pittsburgh New Music Ensemble through direct discussion with the creators and performers.

The Pittsburgh New Music Ensemble (PNME) is one of the nation's oldest professional ensembles devoted to the music of our time. PNME's summer festival presents new music in a way you won't encounter anywhere else. If you think you don't like modern music, or if you're bored with the "same-old same-old" concert routine, PNME promises you'll find something at their performances to entice and inspire you and your students.
